Laura Walker, Executive Director for the Hegler Carus Mansion, spoke in regard to her request for two employee parking signs. She is requesting two parking spots on 7th St. by the Mansion. She says that their parking space fill up very quickly due to construction in that area often. People are parking in front of their driveways even due to minimal parking. Alderman Bacidore reminded her that she is allowed to call the police if their driveways continued to be blocked with parking. These parking spaces would be for visitors coming to the Mansion to visit. There are no designated parking spaces for visitors.

Alderman Herndon asked about the actual entrance to the mansion. Mrs. Walker explained it to be the northside of building. Visitors have to go around the driveway to the backside of the building. She said there are about four spots available for parking in the back of mansion.

Alderman Crane asked about the two handicapped signs on 7th and Sterling. Mrs. Walker was unaware of these two signs.

Alderman Crane does not see a need for two spots. Crane doesn't believe that the construction congestion will continue forever. Walker mentioned that she has reached out to Carus in regard to this issue. She said it is currently public parking for anyone. The mansion's hours are currently Tours from Thurs-Sundays and they are Staffed every single day.

Many options were discussed between committee members to resolve this parking issue at the mansion.

Moved by Alderman Reynolds and seconded by Alderman Lavieri to approve the recommendation regarding adding two "Mansion Visitor Parking Only" signs to the north side of 7th Street, between Sterling and Union Streets, one on each side of mansion driveway.
